Carrie Underwood received a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame Thursday, and Simon Cowell, who helped launch Underwood's career on American Idol, shared why she knew she was a superstar from the start. Thirty seconds ago, I remembered that moment in 2004, St. Louis... we had the worst American Idol season I've ever had in my life, Cowell began in his speech. The whole show was in what I call gray and white. It was nothing. And then this shy lady comes in and sings, I can't make you love me, and the show turned full color at that point. I thought, 'We may have found a great artist here-and we did,' Cowell continued. The former American Idol judge, who had just one part of America's Got Talent finale Wednesday night, then shared when Underwood made the biggest impact on him. This content is imported from Twitter. I think it was after he sang Alone that I made a prediction that he would become the best-selling Idol winner, which you are, Cowell said, as the crowd in Los Angeles erupted in cheers. A clip from American Idol shows Cowell actually correctly guessing Underwood's success at the 2:40 mark. In the video below, she says, You're not just the girl to beat, you're the person to beat. I'll make a prediction: Not only will you win this show, you'll sell more records than any other previous Idol winner. This content is imported from YouTube. Since winning season 4 of American Idol, Underwood has won seven Grammys, six Country Music Awards, and 14 Academy of Country Music Awards. Her husband, Mike Fisher, their 3-year-old son Isaiah Michael, and Underwood's CMA co-star Brad Paisley were all present to see Underwood receive the prestigious honor. And of course, so is her baby! The seven-time Grammy winner, who quickly rose to fame after being crowned champion of season four of the series, took to Instagram on Thursday to express her gratitude. 12 years later and I'm still not sure how it all happened to me! 12 12 Before today, my dreams came true and life has been a dream ever since! I'm beyond blessed and so grateful! wrote Underwood next to a collage of photos from the magical night that changed her life. The Church Bells singer, who is nominated for several CMT awards this year, announced back in February that she was taking a break from her music career to enjoy life with her hockey-player husband, Mike Fisher, 36, and their son, Isaiah, 2.Even with Underwood, 34, on hiatus, there is still plenty of excitement in the Nashville couple's home. In April, Underwood brought some luck to her husband's team, the Nashville Predators, when she performed a surprise rendition of the national anthem before one of their play-off games. Now, after defeating the Anaheim Ducks on Monday night, the Predators are on their way to the finals for the first time! Here's hoping Carrie and Mike have a few more CMTs and a Stanley Cup in their future! ABOUT Play On (2009). Image courtesy of Arista Nashville Records A nice girl gets her heart broken in this catchy tu-tu-tune from Play On. With her tongue tied in knots, she longs to turn back the hands of time. Unfortunately, there is no Ctrl + Z in life. Lyric Song: You had my heart, now I want it back. I'm starting to see everything you're missing. Dude, the. You made me go through it! I want to undo it! Watch music video Good Girl single (2012). Image courtesy of Nashville Arista Records Carrie Underwood calls her inner Pat Benatar with this energetic opening cut from. Good Girl plasters a shiny new coat on her old warnings about running with the wrong man. (See Cowboy Casanova.) Song Lyric: His lips drip honey, but he'll sting you like a bee. Lock up all your love and go throw away the key. Watch music video Last Name single. Image courtesy of Arista Nashville Records It's not so reducing to say that Surname is Before Cheats, but with banjos. Carrie Underwood plays a drink-soaked barfly anxious for action with a man whose surname eludes her. Surname also has a twist ending that (spoiler alert!) turns the whole thing into a twisted wedding song. Have a good time. Lyric Song: Last night I did things I'm not proud of, and I got a little crazy. Last night I met a guy on the dance floor, and I let him call me a baby. Watch Music Video Mom's Song Single (2009). Picture courtesy of Arista Nashville Records With some help from co-writer Kara DioGuardi (judge's onetime American Idol), Carrie Underwood ventures into autobiographical territory with this song from Play On. It tells the story of a young woman who is about to marry, who wants nothing more in the world except blessing of her mother. Released as a single in 2010, Mama's Song showed a less pompous side to the singer. Song Lyric: Mom there's no way she'll ever lose me, and giving me away isn't goodbye. As you watch me walk in my future, I hope tears of joy are in your eyes. Watch the video Blown Away (2012). Picture Picture by Arista Nashville Records This carefree song is a change of pace by Carrie Underwood. Backed by Caribbean instruments, she spits out corny-but-catchy lyrics that are hard not to like. Underwood called writing One Way Ticket a fun process, with the finished product recalling the onetime American Idol of riding some spray-painted, bright-colored Volkswagen bus going down to Mexico for the spring break. We'll believe her. Song Lyric: Raise your hands in the air tonight, put a little love back into your life. Get your feet up, just kick it - we have a one-way ticket. Listen to the All-American Girl single. Image courtesy of Arista Nashville Records Carrie Underwood went platinum with this song for two generations of girls growing up and falling in love. The musical tale is parallel to the girl next door persona of the singer. His light tone is matched by the silly music video, in which Underwood plays the outfit as an astronaut, president, cheerleader and bride -- with some help from a green screen. Song Lyric: And now it's wrapped around her finger, she's the center of his world. And his heart belongs to this sweet little beautiful, lovely, perfect All-American Girl. Watch cowboy casanova single music video. Image courtesy of Arista Nashville Records Don't Worry, Carrie Underwood can resist a boot-wearing, life-destroying Don Juan. But others may not have the willpower of her. That's why the singer still sends this musical missive to all the individual ladies out there: Don't get candy from Casanovas. Song Lyric: It's a good time cowboy Casanova, leaning up against the record machine. It looks like a cool drink of water, but it's candy coated misery. Watch music video Jesus Take the Wheel Single (2005). Image courtesy of Arista Nashville Records This spiritual song from Carrie Underwood's debut became the first #1 hit of her career after Idol. If some critics questioned her talents, now they've had to notice. At the 2007 Grammy Awards, Jesus Take the Wheel won Country Song of the Year, and picked up both single of the year and song of the year at the 2006 ACM Awards. Song Lyric: Jesus takes the wheel, take it out of my hands. Because I can't do it alone, I'm leaving it, so give me another chance. Watch music video Blown Away (2012). Image courtesy of Arista Nashville Records Jackhammer's production of Carrie Underwood's greatest hits can sometimes overwhelm her vocals. That's not the case with this heartfelt song from. See You Again is full of bittersweet emotions, while restrained support allows Underwood's voice to Song Lyric: I met a boy a lot like you, it's funny how he used to sing it too. But he's always a little off the key, so different from us. Listen Before Cheats Single (2006). Image courtesy of Arista Nashville Records Carrie Underwood strutted into Gretchen Wilson territory with this infectious song that is full of attitude. A friend takes a hard lesson in When his ex-boyfriend goes medieval in his off-road vehicle. This cautionary tale became the country singer's second song #1, and was (interesting!) written by two men: Josh Kear and Chris Tompkins. Song Lyric: Right now, he's probably slow dancing with a bleached-blondie bum, and she's probably getting perky. Right now he's probably buying her a little fruity drink, 'cause he can't shoot whiskey.
